

Sheer exhaustion occasionally caused a partial lull in the fighting during the day.

Federals Reform.
At 11 o'clock the reformed Federals reformed and again advanced towards the boundary line, masking their movement with heavy rifle fire. Machine guns were silenced. The rebels, encouraged by their early success, returned the Federal fire eagerly. The interval had been employed by the rebels in digging new trenches.

The advance guard of the Federals in this attack consisted of fifty cavalrymen and 300 infantrymen. Behind them was a supporting party that kept under cover of trees and bushes. The Federals reserved their fire, but an unceasing stream of bullets poured from the rebel trenches. These, striking the dry earth, made it appear as if a great storm were raging, and for a time obscured the conflict.

The advancing Federals again found the strength and determination of the insurgents too much for them. They fell back, but in good order, firing as they retired. They left the field, and their few machine guns in the possession of the enemy.

Wounded in Douglas.
The Douglas wounded are O. K. Goll, Tomlinson, scalp wound on the side of the head, while watching the battle from Fourth Street, Douglas. Mr. Goll had accompanied the Associated Press correspondent to the front earlier in the day, and had fallen back to that point of observation.

Elphidee Arce, Douglas, wounded in leg.
Frank Williams, blacksmith helper, Copper Queen Mining Company, shot in back while standing outside of the prescribed danger zone. The wound is serious and possibly fatal.

John Hamilton, Douglas, wounded in back while watching the battle with forty others from the top of an adobe house, several blocks from the international line.

May Be Resumed To-Day.
Every indication points to a resumption of fighting to-morrow. If the Federals should prove successful, it means that the battle will be carried to the streets of Agua Prieta with increasing menace to the citizens of Douglas.

There is a movement to-night among the leading citizens of Douglas to send a large number of telegrams to President Taft asking him to safeguard at any cost the lives of United States citizens.

Colonel Shunk has wired all information on the situation to President Taft. Mayor McGuire to-day sent the following message to President Taft: "Six persons shot in Douglas to-day during battle between Mexican Federals and insurgents. Please advise me of the results of your efforts to come. Battered falling all over city. Cannot do anything but hope for your protection."

Juarez Avails Attack.
El Paso, Tex., April 17.—Juarez, Mex., to-night is expecting an attack from rebels at any time. Federal troops worked on fortifications all day, while soldiers in squads were stationed overlooking the town. Signal men on the highest mountains wiggled their reports to the city. It is believed the insurgent force is in the mountains.

American trainmen coming from San Antonio, 22 miles south of Juarez, where they had been pressed into service by the insurgents, report that Guiseppe Garibaldi, one of Madero's lieutenants, is at that point with 600 men. He is superintending the preparations for bringing up the rest of the main rebel army from the south.

Numerous American and natives bring reports of the killing in the battle of Eluche on Saturday of Oscar C. Ogilvie, an American soldier of fortune, who dynamited all the bridges south of Juarez.

Creighton commanded at the battle on Saturday, it is said, and led the charge in which Captain Porfirio Hernandez, of the Mexican Federal army, was shot. The Federals are said to have centred their fire on the American, and soon laid him low.

Mexican officers to-day found the body of Federal Lieutenant Abigail Jimenez, who was killed in Saturday's battle. The body had been mutilated by coyotes.

Father and Son in Conflict.
Chihuahua, Mexico, April 17.—After being transferred from train to train, Francisco Madero, Sr., father of the rebel leader, to-night is finally en route here, being expected early to-morrow. The government operated a number of special trains, and also conveyed the party in carriages across portions of the railway where bridges had been destroyed.

Senor Madero sent a telegram asking that the Mexico and Northwestern Railroad, running west of here, be requested to have a special train in readiness to take him to the insurgent camp, in the North. The train will be ready to pull out of here to-morrow morning.

It is probable that Senor Madero will have to go to the end of the line, Madera, 180 miles from Chihuahua.

Francisco L. Madero, Jr., the insurgent leader, has been informed that his father will attempt to confer with him. The son is believed to be with his troops far from the railroad tracks, north of Madera, or near Casas Grandes. As soon as he receives word of his father's coming, however, he probably will get in touch with the railroad, which outside of Chihuahua is under control of the insurgents.

Altogether, the exact time of the meeting between the elder Madero and his son is problematical, as also is the prospect of peace as a result of the conference.
